

NPRA ANTITRUST POLICY FOR PRESENTERS

The National Petrochemical & Refiners Association is organized to foster cooperation and the exchange of information among its members. These worthwhile activities are sanctioned by custom and law, but are subject to certain legal requirements.

Those speaking at our meetings may avoid difficulties for themselves and for the Association by avoiding any discussion of present or projected prices, sales terms, territories, production plans, or any other element of competition. You may refer to past prices if the source is clearly cited and the time is at least three months prior to the date of the conference. This is equally important in the formal paper, the presentation and in any question and answer session. We ask that you provide us with a copy of your paper and presentation before it is printed, posted on the website, or presented at the conference so that it can be reviewed by NPRA legal counsel.

If you have any questions about this policy, we encourage you to consult with your company's legal counsel or email NPRA Attorney Greg Scott, 202-457-0840, who will be happy to discuss it with you.
